WE NOMINATE

George Eckel Duckworth, one of this country's distinguished classicists and a Princetonian with links connecting the early 1920's with Princeton Present, who in the weeks ahead will be receiving new honors with the University of Michigan's October publication of "Structural Patterns and Proportions in Vergil's 'Aeneid' ". As formidable-sounding as the title might be, and as esoteric as the research could seem even to a student of the Classics, the 59-year old Duckworth has made a major contribution to the understanding of the nature of poetry by demonstrating that the "immortal Vergil" in the First Century B.C. was concerned with preserving mathematical symmetries in his poetry.

It was a dozen years ago that Duckworth, a native of Little York, N. J., a graduate of Princeton with the Class of 1924, and a member of the University Faculty since 1929, hit upon the idea that everywhere in "The Aeneid"—in its main divisions and subdivisions, in the short speeches and in the long narrative sections—"there is a surprisingly constant ratio." He found beyond doubt that the Golden Mean ratio, recognized in mathematics, art and architecture, is fully applicable to poetry and was a dominant factor in shaping the Vergilian epic in which the number of lines in consecutive units of the work fall into a mathematical series.

From fellow travelers in the Classics, in Europe as well as in the United States, has come the highest kind of praise for Duckworth's painstaking researches. The prolific Robert Graves, scholar, poet and novelist, finds that "anything Duckworth writes makes admirable historical sense and I feel great gratitude to him." Another eminent classicist notes that this is "an adventurous book" producing results that are important and even startling. Duckworth, it has been stressed, has "faced the painful responsibilities of such a work . . . has made his work as scientific as it can be made, . . . has come forward with a notable advance in knowledge."

The kind of outgoing teacher who is as interested in sharing his enthusiasms with Princeton High School seniors as he is in supervising graduate seminars, Duckworth has been almost continuously associated with Princeton since his freshman fall (1920) on the University Campus. Following a two-year interlude at the University of Nebraska, he returned to the Princeton Graduate School in 1928, joined the Department of Classics the next year and in the early 1930's launched the series of publications which established his position as an authority in the fields of the Greek and Roman Epic and Drama.

Duckworth, past president of the American Philological Association, a long-time trustee of the American Academy in Rome and for four years director of the Academy's Summer Session of the School of Classical Studies, has been closely identified with educational enterprises "closer to home." From 1937 until 1956 he was a hard-working member of Rider's College's Board of Trustees and in the same period completed two terms as a member of Princeton Township's Board of Education. He has helped sponsor the development of the New Jersey Junior Classical League and in recent years has merited such distinctions as a Visiting Professorship at Harvard, a Visiting Scholarship in the University Center, Virginia, and a Guggenheim Fellowship.

For his capacities for combining solid scholarship with publications that are "very lucid and readable"; for personifying the single-minded enthusiasm of the dedicated humanist who looks beyond tradition and "accepted interpretations"; for pioneering a structural analysis of poetry that will be a springboard for future research; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS

Early, and Professionally. For those who place football at the top of their list of spectator sports, the Princeton scene this year offered a major bonanza. Not only was the 1962 season starting three weeks early, but the big boys were coming to town.

For the first time since it was dedicated, three major wars and 40 years ago, Palmer Stadium will be the scene of a game between two of the top professional teams in the nation's top circuit—the National Football League. All indications point to a rock-bottom sellout for the meeting between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Eagles.

Cornelius J. Arnett, the Princeton Jaycee handling ticket sales, reported a probability that there will be a gate sale at the Stadium before Saturday's 2 o'clock kickoff. But in addition to every chapter of the State Junior Chamber of Commerce, the sponsoring organization, the Giant and Eagle home offices are selling tickets as well.

The Jaycee's office is in the First National Bank Building at 90 Nassau Street; the telephone number is WA 1-2077. Tickets at $3.50 and $3.50 remain; standing room may also be sold.

Rivalry A Natural. From the January day when announcement was first made of the event, it held a high degree of appeal for the football minded. Through the years, the Giants have had two rivals in the Eastern Conference of the National League with whom action has reached a peak of interest—the Cleveland Browns and the Eagles. Since Princeton is equidistant between New York and Philadelphia, it followed that a meeting of the teams representing these two cities was the best of all possible choices.

"THE VIOLENT WORLD OF SAM HUFF," a TV program detailing the rough life of a linebacker in pro football, will be enacted in Palmer Stadium Saturday when the New York Giants and Philadelphia Eagles meet in this town's first play-for-pay game. See below and Sports In Princeton, page 23.

Build-up for the game followed a slow pace throughout the spring and early summer; even by mid-August, no more than 16,000 of Palmer Stadium's 46,000-seat capacity had been sold. Billboards erected by the Ballantine Brewing Co., a cooperating backer of the event, dotted the State, touring Princetonians reported, but daily requests were received at TOWN TOPICS asking where tickets might be purchased.

As football began to compete with baseball and other summer pastimes for attention on the sports pages, interest in the game grew steadily. During a video tape telecast of Saturday's Eagles-Steelers set-to at Hershey, Pa., viewers were urged half a dozen times to be sure to see this weekend's game "in beautiful Palmer Stadium."

Not Easily Arranged. Permission to stage the game in Palmer Stadium, long the site of purely amateur activities, was not easily achieved by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The initial conference between the Jaycees and Princeton University officials drew a flat reject on a variety of counts.

Easier for a second try, the Jaycees held their fire, and no detailed statement was forthcoming at the University level. But, briefly, word came from Nassau Hall that (1) the chief participants (the Giants

Ten Years Ago In Princeton

TOWN TOPICS, Sept. 7, 1952: It was just about a decade ago that the telephone company re-shuffled its numbers to give each one five digits. All-digit dialing was still 10 years away in 1952, and even "Walmat" was in the future, but confusion was in the present tense.

The Princeton University Press number became 1-1001 and Cousins, the wine and liquor emporium, became 1-0001, and there were frustrations all around. As TOWN TOPICS put it, "Is Cask of Amontillado" a book or something to drink?"

The Community Chest, scler of the Princeton United Fund, was about to start its annual drive. The goal: $117,400, large-

Person To Person

We read a fine illustration of the idea that we should share pleasures with others. "People who raise flowers know that if they pick them the plants continue to bear blossoms all summer, but if they don't allow anyone to pick the flowers, they go to seed, wither and die. Just as the beauty of flowers is multiplied if they are shared, the serenity of the greatest joy of life increased by sharing, but these pleasures wither away if we keep them to ourselves." This can certainly be applied to business as well as to other areas of life. We get real pleasure from knowing that you are satisfied with our service, and so in a sense we are sharing with you the pleasure of satisfaction with a job well done. May we please serve you? Today in 1962, the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad is asking the Princeton community for funds (see Topics of the Week). In 1952, the squad received a public open letter of grateful thanks from the friend of a woman who had suffered a stroke. Although the woman was stricken beyond the area served by the rescue squad, she was brought to Princeton by three members of the unit, Albert Fato, Charles Galdieri and Robert McCloskey who gave up their Sunday for the rescue mission.

Drivers discovered, just after Labor Day 1952, that their automobile liability insurance rates were going up. In Princeton, basic coverage for a passenger car increased from $32 to $35.

Three inches of rain fell over that Labor Day weekend in 1952, incidentally.

Consolidation. "Topics of the Week" reminded its readers to watch the campaign for the League of Women Voters to tell the public about the need for consolidation, the issue that was to singe the town one year later. A coffee and gift shop was ready to open in the new hospital wing that was scheduled to be completed in the fall. Members of the Hospital Aid Committee were founders and thrivings, the shop is still a thriving success after 10 years.

Movie-goes were going to the Playhouse to see "The Big Sky," with Kirk Douglas in "a distinguished filming of the story of the development of the west." In the wings were "Les Miserables" with Michael Pennie, and "What Price Glory" in the James Cagney-Dan Dailey version.

At the Garden, "Tony Curtis was the 'Son of Ali Baba,' Washington Story," the 1952 Advice and Consent was described as a "relatively hard-hitting film." Van Johnson starred.

Seven Princeton residents of the class of '52 at the University were awarded honors for academic work. They were Lettie J. Laughlin, Jr., Robert A. Bennett, Gerald E. Bentley, Jr., Colin C. McNaney, Thomas H. McInch, Arthur J. Pollon and Lucius Wilmerding.

Readers who turned first to the sports page, found TOWN TOPICS' sports editor commenting on the role of an inpregnable Princeton football team and an indomitable coach Caldwell in the resignation of Yale's Herman Hickman.

The Saturday Evening Post picked Princeton as 16th and Pennsylvania as 18th in its ranking of teams throughout the nation, and then named the Quakers to win the Ivy League title. "That's a bit tough to follow," was the sports editor's comment.

In softball, balloting was almost complete for an all-star tripeheader which would pit the Phantoms against the Nassau Social Club; all-star outfields from the other teams in the two men's leagues against each other, and a girls' all-star team against Kings Jan institutions throughout New Jersey.

The box-office "take" going to the Glants and Eagles will be strictly in line with National Football League standards for pre-season exhibition contests. As to supervising all segments of the game save for the action itself, the Jaycees sold themselves on the grounds that the game was a test of ability and can more than offset inexperience in specific areas. It will be a test, but they may attain their goal.

Beer on the Air Waves. It might have been that the University of Pennsylvania's explanation of a brewing company with the game-P. Ballantine & Sons is credited in news releases "with assistance and cooperation" in staging the affair, picked up the tab at a lavish press luncheon last spring at the Nassau Inn. After an annual picnic and a picnic $1.5 million annually from its alumni and an occasional $50,000 in cash gifts, gifts presumably solicited tele-totators as well as those who occasionally do.

Nothing was said, however, and it remains to be seen how much of a plug the Ballantine Co. executives from Palmer Stadium "Saturday on air" waves heretofore. Such staples as furniture, automobiles and men's wear. For those who prefer the radio, the game will be broadcast over WNEW, New York; WCAG, Philadelphia; WCPC, New Brunswick. Twenty-three hours after the kickoff (Sunday, 1 p.m.) Philadelphia's Channel 10 will telecast the entire game on video tape.

The contest climaxes the 1962 exhibition season, which began early in August and has seen the Philadelphia Eagles outshine the New York Giants by a considerable margin (details in Sports in Princeton, page 23.) Next weekend, Coach Allie Sherman's defending champions will begin the quest for a second straight eastern title by meeting the Browns at Cleveland. Because of regular season and World Series commitments, Yankee Stadium is not open to the Giants until the second Sunday in October, and they'll play their first four games on the road.

The Eagles face the St. Louis Cardinals at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, in their first game of the championship season. A week later, on September 23, the Glants and the Eagles meet in the first contest of their regular-season series.

Among the 46,000 spectators Saturday will be Princeton's 72-man football squad, having the afternoon off for the occasion from its training camp at Blairstown. Three weeks later, the modern-day descendants of the players who originated football will take over the Stadium when Rutgers and Princeton move a notch closer to their centennial in 1869.

This weekend, however, professional football comes to Princeton. If the occasion proves auspicious, football fans will be delighted to see it develop into an annual event.

TOPICS Of the Town

MARVEL TO WITHDRAW
From Township Race. William W. Marvel, Democratic candidate for Township Committee, indicated this week that he will withdraw from the race because of the demands of a new job.

Mr. Marvel served on Township Committee for one three-year term and was defeated by William Wilson, Republican, when he ran for re-election last year.

So far, there has been no indication from Township Democrats about a successor to Mr. Marvel on the ticket. If the Democrats decide to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Marvel, they must file the name of their new candidate with the Mercer County Clerk by October 3, 37 days before the general election.

Mr. Marvel's running mate on the Democratic ticket for Township Committee is John Hite. The Township Republican candidates are John O. Green and Carl Schaefer.

TOWNSHIP GIVEN LAND
For "Open Space." Thirteen acres of land in the Brookstone area, surrounded on three sides by Stony Brook, have been deeded to the Township by Lawrence S. Greene, Brookstone developer, as the municipality's first "Open Space" donation.

The acquisition was announced Tuesday night at

IT'S THE PRINCIPAL OF THE THING: William D. Perkins, principal of the new Community Park School, surveys his domain, which is actually in better shape than it looks. The school is complete on the inside; landscaping is the next step. To the right are the windows of the cafeteria-all purpose room; to the left, the angled, walls of the main corridor and above, the windows of the 20-foot-high gymnasium.

Township Committee meeting by Thomas F. Cook, Committee assigned to "Open Space" affairs.

Legally, the Township has received an undivided one-fifth interest in the 13-acre plot, with the remaining four-fifths to be given over the next four years. The land is to be used for recreation and conservation only, and no buildings or roads are to be constructed on it, except for an access road from Brookstone Drive, Mr. Cook stated.

He said he thought the piece would probably be used by fishermen, bird-watchers and walkers-through-the-woods, rather than by people bent on strenuous sport. The parcel is available to the public immediately, he told Committee, although the entire property will not legally belong to the Township for four years.

To Name Commission. As a complement to the Brookstone acquisition, Committee passed on first reading an ordinance to establish an Open Space Commission of seven citizens, a Township Committeeman and the administrator.

This nine-member Commission will recommend plans for acquiring land, negotiate with property owners, arrange for the supervision of Open Space lands, and confer with other municipalities on acquiring property. Public hearings on the ordinance will be Monday, September 17.

Other Public Hearings. On the same night, public hearings will also be held on an ordinance appropriating $125,000 for the Jefferson-Moore sidewalks, (the extra money being required because additional excavations were necessary) and on an ordinance to pave, curb and sidewalk Terhune between Walnut and Ewing. Sewers for the portion have already been ordinances, and Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman remarked that this was probably the first street in Township history to have all its improvements made at once.

Committee told the Township engineer, James Breth, and his department, to proceed with their plans for surveying and designing the Great Road sewer. Originally, Committee had decided to firm out this project because the engineering department did not have sufficient time, but the department is now up to its full complement of engineers and therefore has the time and men to do the job.

"I have had doubts about this Great Road sewer," Mr. Cook said, "but if our engineering department can do the survey and save us the additional expense, I'm in favor."

For the time being, the department will consider only the section from the Mountain Avenue trunk through the Sacred Heart property to Tenacre, holding back on the final section until the Great Road realignment has been determined.

ROUND-UP

Cooler than usual in August?
It was, all right, by an average of five degrees, which is considerable.

The average maximum temperature was a 77.8 for the month just ended, in comparison to 82.2 a year ago... the figures are even more emphatic on the minimum side: an average low of 55.6 has been recorded by the Princeton Weather Co. during the past 70 years, but in August, 1962, the average minimum was an almost chill 59.1.

Rainfall was higher than usual: 7.11 inches being recorded... and September started right in with an open sugout all its own: during a three-hour period Sunday morning, 1.81 inches fell... more than a third of the normal amount for an entire 30-day period.

The long-range forecast reverses this trend for September, however... U.S. Weather Bureau predictions for the northeast indicate that rainfall will be above normal and temperatures will follow suit.

The "con" men were in town again last week. Mrs. Cleo Dillard of 277 losing $201 to them, Borough Police report... it was minor variation of the age old game, in which two strangers offered to relieve a friend of his funds and split with her if Mrs. Dil-lard would match the money they could provide.

When she withdrew hers
from the First National Bank (in front of which, oddly enough, the conversation had begun), the "con" men took it and agreed to return in an hour.

oddly enough, they didn't
... Police Chief Peter J. Mc-Crohan suggests that those approached by strangers suggesting "money-matching" is a sea dime to call the police first.

Other notes on the police dockets: a Fort Lee man missed the curve over the Stony Brook bridge Friday night, skidded 232 feet in his small sports car into a waiting area and smelt tree... a driver for the Suburban Bus Co. found a cup of coffee for which he stopped to a Nassau Street restaurant cost $10 when the change machine in the bus was rifled in his absence.

estimated at $34,000.

Because the state does not allow municipalities (but does allow school boards) to keep fund-raising accounts in commercial banks, Committee authorized administrator Jo-

REPORT FROM GEORGIA

By Rabbi Gendler. It was dark when Rabbi Everett G.
Gendler and a fellow clergyman were released last Thursday from the Lee County Stockade.
A Negro couple was passing by on the sidewalk outside the cell.
"How ya doin'?" the man said. The clergymen did not catch the remark. The Rabbi repeated, "How ya doin'?" This time they heard. "Great," they answered.

It was the end of a 52-hour stay in jail for Rabbi Gendler, and he was on his way back home to conduct Sabbath services at the Princeton Jewish Center. Several other clergymen were leaving also. Others remained in jail.
They had come to Albany,
the city whose racial problems have attracted nationwide attention, "to help bring about an act of reconciliation" between whites and Negroes.
They had come for other reasons, too.

A Religious Issue. "Segregation is more than just a social or legal issue," Rabbi Gendler said. "It is a religious issue as well. It is a question of whether we see the divine in our fellow man."

"We didn't go with a self-righteous attitude. Each of us knows how far we have to go in our own communities. It was just that there was a group asking for recognition of his human dignity. If we didn't respond, then the whole appeal to moral consciousness would have no justification."
The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and a leading advocate of the non-violent resistance movement, organized the bringing of northern clergymen to Albany.

"The movement is very directly in the Biblical tradition," Rabbi Gendler said. "Dr.
King's appeal plus our Biblical heritages smoked us out, though I'm sure many would have preferred to spend the time relaxing under the pines or down at the beach."

Arrested At Prayers. Rabbi Gendler, along with some 75 others, including clergymen from New York, Chicago and several New Jersey communities, was arrested Tuesday afternoon for staging a prayer meeting on the steps of the city hall of Albany.

He and 19 others were taken to the Lee County Stockade near Leesburg, some 15 miles from Albany. Except for two elderly men and some who were released to fill commitments to their congregations at home, the prisoners fasted for 52 hours. Rabbi Gendler was released Thursday evening and returned home for Sabbath services. Nine others stayed in jail.

Rabbi Gendler had arrived

The Dancing Man, Princeton's own Pied Piper, Leads the way

The Dancing Man, by name Michael, is a "Commedia dell'Arte" figure from the skilled hand of the seventeenth century engraver Jacques Callot. Full of dash and mischief, and pleasantly wide-eyed in the bargain. But not a creature of frivolity only. The Dancing Man, over the past two years he's come to stand for something rather special at Princeton: a special quality and pleasure, in entertainment. The Dancing Man is the symbol of Princeton University's Center for the Performing Arts at McCarter Theatre.

Here Princeton audiences during 1961-62 found top-drawer concert programs (the Boston Symphony, Isaac Stern, Rudolph Serkin), major dance events (the Ceylon National Theatre, the American Ballet Theatre), a headlining talk artists (Pete Seeger, Joan Baez), the best of off-Broadway (Samuel Beckett's "Happy Days," "Breath"), foreign and classic film series, and practically unique in America (the University of Michigan is giving us the complete repertoire of following our example in 1962-63), a national repertory company in residence, presenting seasons of the great plays of all time. The Dancing Man will be leading the way again in Fall, and let us add you to our card, and let us add your name to McCarter's mailing list.

MISS BUCK TO SPEAK At Chinese Benefit. Pearl Buck, Nobel prize-winning author who is closely identified with China, will give a brief introductory talk at the benefit program of the Chinese performing arts to be held in McCarter Theatre on September 22 at 7:30 p.m. The program is being presented under the sponsorship of the University Chinese Club of Princeton.

Proceeds from the evening will be given to a group of young doctors who operate a free clinic for refugees in Hong Kong.

Following Miss Buck's introductory remarks, the Hu Opera Company will present "The Cave of Pan Sze," a legend from Chinese mythology whose characters include a Monk, a Spider Nymph and the Monkey King.

Played before Chinese audiences for many years, "The Cave of Pan Sze" is known for the subtlety of its songs, the spectacular quality of its acrobatics and the wit of its dialogue.

Also on the program will be a group of dances from the classic repertoire performed by Mrs. Tang's classical dancers.

The Princeton soprano, Anita Lee (Mrs. Robert Mixon) will sing a group of Chinese songs including "The Song of an Orphan," and "Mountain in the Misty Realm's Myth." A graduate of Westminster Choir College, Miss Lee has appeared frequently in benefit performances and in recital, and she was the first Chinese woman to perform as a soloist in Carnegie Hall.

The costumes worn by a princess of long ago and the mandarin gown worn by a young woman of today will be among the costumes from Hong Kong modeled during the evening by Chinese girls from Princeton and nearby communities.

Models will be the Misses Vivian Hu, Lydia Hwang, Judy Vick, Jennie Sun and Mary Sun.

Private collectors will lend their objects of Chinese art for display at McCarter in the theatre's gallery, and there will be brief explanations with each painting or piece of sculpture.

Tickets are available at the University Store. They may be reserved by writing to Box 100, Graduate College, or calling WA 4-2191.

MUSIC MAN RETURNS To Lambertville Circus. "The Music Man" will play a return engagement at St. John Terrell's Music Circus, Lambertville, through Sunday. Earlier in the season, the Meredith Wilson hit played for two weeks at Lambertville, drawing the largest crowds in the theatre's 14-year history. Hundreds were turned away for lack of seats.

James Cagney has the title role of Professor Harold Hill. Others in the cast are Sybil Lamb, Grace Carney, Todd Halliwell, Don DeLuise, Travis Hudson and Dawn Marie Simms.

HARVEY CONTINUES At Bucks Playhouse. The Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy "Harvey" will run through Sunday, September 16, at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope. Tom Ewell stars in the story of Elwood P. Dowd and his invisible friend, Harvey the rabbit.

James Hammerstein, son of the late Oscar Hammerstein, the director, Wallace Acton, making his tenth appearance at the Playhouse, plays Dr. Chumley. John Raymond Freimann has designed the sets, and Richard Nelson has charge of lighting.

"MIKADO" COMING To Hightstown. The entire cast of the off-Broadway production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado" will come to Hightstown on Sept. 16.

THE PLAYHOUSE
Two Weeks In Another Town (Today thru Saturday) This is an off-beat picture about the drama of movie-making in Rome.
Kirk Douglas takes the part of a former Hollywood star trying to beat his way out of a moribund scene. When Robert is stricken with a heart attack and his wife, played by Claire Trevor, raves at him, Guy Charisse is the woman (femme fatale) to whom Douglas was once married. She shares with him a wild automobile ride through darkened Rome—with Douglas emerging through a final catarsis.

ROAD WORK: Now Hope, Bing Crosby and Jean Collins star in the latest of the famous "Road" series—"The Road to Hong Kong"—which opens at the Prince this Sunday.

Others in the cast are George Hamilton as a brooding youth, and Dahlia Lavi, Frank, especially so in its night-life scenes, and dramatic photographs in color. Comment: Provocative and adult.

The Miracle Worker (Sun. thru Tues.) is an emotionally filmed based on the early childhood of Helen Keller, deaf, dumb and blind, who was guided by her teacher and companion, Annie Sullivan. The basic problem is a young child 7 years of age who rebels at her family and the world because she is unable to communicate. Patty is the part that gamut as the young Helen Keller, just as she did in the stage version. Anne Bancroft does an outstanding job as Annie Sullivan. In the tortuous process, emotional and physical have been wrought and the house is almost wrecked as the little monster is taught obedience and how to learn. Comment: powerful drama.

THE GARDEN
Summertime (Today thru Tues.) was filmed in South America by Leopoldo Torre Nilsson, a producer-director who has been profoundly influenced by films such as "La Dolce Vita" and "L'Avventura".

The story revolves around an Argentine girl who is urged by her grandmother to enter a clandestine relationship with a wealthy young man. The young woman, played by beautiful Graciela Borges, agrees to barter her body and becomes alienated from her real self. Comment: age-old cynicism.

"A Coming-Out Party (Sept. 12-13) stars bulky James Robertson Justice as a V.I.P. British scientist in World War II who escapes from a German prison camp.
The story is told in flashback, whereby Justice is the intolerant, brilliant and unapproachable "brain" who is the subject of a "This Is Your Life" sort of TV program as the film opens.

The British comic touch comes into its own in a series of hectic incidents in which Justice and two fellow prisoners impersonate visiting Swiss prison inspectors. Comment: light, but entertaining.

THE PRINCE
Follow That Dream (today thru Sun.) stars Elvis Presley in an amusing satire on government aid. His pop, played by Arthur O'Connell, is a shiftless Floridian who has been living on various kinds of bounty for years.
Presley, not overly bright and fearful of marriage, becomes involved in even a high-class inspector tries to evict the family, when a welfare supervisor, played by Anne Moore, makes a play for him, and when a gambler opens a casino over the property. In the course of the lively go-on, Elvis sings several numbers. Comment: Elvis in form.

IT'S NEW To Us

BACKS: SHAGGY OR BARE
Or Suavey Sheathed. On a recent tour of the Stacy dress shop in the Lawrence Shopping Center one air-conditioned afternoon, we found two ways to dress for winter: lay your back as bare as a sun-bather's, or swath it completely in the bulkiest mohair. In between, you might try the suavities of Italian double knits or brocade, but in any case, the choice is wide.

Getting back to the backless, you will examine with keen interest (and so will your audience when you wear one) several party dresses, mostly black, which have been fashioned with varying degrees of decollete.

One sleeveless model has an absolutely plain, round-necked front and a back which is bare to the waist with an oval "hole" which closes at the nape of the neck with a modest bow.

Others have drapes or rippling ruffles framing the decollete and one chalk white crepe marks the nadir with a large red rose.

Ladies with primmer tastes will hesitate before a crissé brocade theatre dress with matching coat cut in A-shape with short raglan sleeves and a big platter of a collar, and an orange velvet cocktail dress with square-backed neck, gathered skirt and satin waist bow. Both are junior sizes.

A striking informal dress-up dress has been made with a dark brown jersey top and a big puff skirt made of shaggy, cocoa-colored "fur." A wide belt with big rhinestone buckle marks the whole ensemble for a gala evening.

While we're on the wool topic, let us mention a junior with a deep olive, long-sleeved top that goes down to the hip line where it has been sewn to a bright rust orange straight skirt. A wide olive belt at the natural waistline has olive fringe and an orange belt tab.

The shift at Stacy is made of soft camel over a silk print blouse with a neck bow edging out over the round neckline. The knit of the season is a straight black with snug three-quarter sleeves, a drawstring waist and, over it all, a full-length camel clutch coat knit with a wide turnback collar deeply faced with the same black facing.

Passing by the hat-bar, we caught the eye of Mr. Johns

Silky, Shaggy Coats

There are marvellous winter coats at Stacy's made from the stolen fur of that extraordinary little animal known to hunters and zoologists as "Dynel modacrylic."

Amazing animal, really. Dynel, of course, is the chemist-trapper who first discovered the elusive creature and is now now to breed him in the laboratory. "Modacrylic" derives from the Greek akros, meaning "at the farthest point," or "How nigh do I have to climb to get a way from these crazy 'hickers'?"

In the wild, the creature has a sparse coat; however, by cross-breeding with certain goats, breeders can produce Dynel modacrylics with mohair than the true species, and it is this hybrid you will find used in the Stacy coats.

One coat displays the lengthy, silky hair in splendid deep copper like a spangle, another in a delicious whipped cream shade. There is a sport model — we're speaking here of fashion, not genetics — and a truly remarkable mutation which has a natural milk collar, if you can believe it. Isn't nature wonderful?

all dimpled crown in bright red with down-turned brim that's wide in front and narrow in the back. Comes in sand, too.

Stacy has sweaters as numberless as the sands, but the one we liked particularly is Garland's white bulky with grey, black and white ribbing around the neckline and down the front, flanking the zipper. Two silver grey enbossed buttons close the neckhole.

HOW CLEAN CAN YOU BE?

Cleaner. Now. Over the past year or two, University Cleaners has been modernizing itself, department by department, usually to the tune of push-buttons and electronic brains of one kind and another.

The latest step is the installation, about two weeks ago, of a refined new $12,000 filter to accompany the dry-cleaning process.

A friend of John Archer's (Mr. Archer owns University Cleaners) had been mulling in his mind for some time the idea of the new filter. When Mr. Archer heard about it, he was so impressed that he told his friend to go ahead and make one—a kind of prototype which University Cleaners could use and test for the inventor.

YOUTH MUST BE SERVED: But it is in the form of places for teenagers to go. It isn't, in the opinion of Dave and John Cruser, identical 18-year-old twins. For their's and other teenage comments, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of the available places for teenagers to go in Princeton?
Where asked: Nassau Street.

Sally Stewart, 15, 231 Russell Road, Miss Fine's School: I think they are limited. The only place there is to go is a canteen and I don't think that is very good. I just don't like it. This is purely personal, but I'm not sure that is the best reason for teenagers to get together. There are a lot of things that I would prefer to do than go to a canteen Saturday night. I think the University offers a lot of things in the way of spectator sports for the teenagers, but I think there should be something else. Something for teenagers with a minimum of adult supervision.

David Cruser, 18, 37 William Street, painter: There's something to do during the weekend but nothing to do during the week. Not a thing! Especially during the summer. They used to have dances at Kingston and Franklin Park which were worthwhile going to because they had a band and you'd want to stay all night. It's okay if you belong to the Y, you can go to a dance anytime, but if you don't belong there is no place to go. After you're 18, membership goes up from $15 to $25. That's too much. What they need is a canteen open on Wednesday and Saturday so there's something to do during the week. And what they need most of all is something to do on a Sunday. There is absolutely nothing going on in town then. Even Renwick's is closed on Sunday.

John Cruser, 18, 37 William Street, waiter at Renwick's: There's no canteen for one thing. They started it but it was allowed to stop. The kids go but by 9 o'clock they all leave. I went one night and there were only about 20 kids there. The Princeton canteen was going to have a record hop just before school was out and right at the last minute they cancelled it. In Rocky Hill, they have a swimming pool for the kids. I know there is one on Route 1 but you need a car and lots of kids don't have licenses.

Penny Griswold, 15, Ridgewood Road, Miss Fine's School: I feel there is no place to go for young people. We usually just hang around each other's homes because there isn't any place for us to go. Or else we go down to Lawrenceville for the dances. I know, if I have a date, if we don't go to a tea ball, there is no place to go. We are always complaining there is no place to go in Princeton. The only place you can go in Princeton is to the movies. Teenagers aren't welcomed in most of the restaurants. Many times we have worked in a place and have had ask us if we want to hang around. If you do they shove you in the back and give you poor services. Just because we're teenagers.

Anthony Franz, 15, 92 Birch Avenue, PHS: I think they should build a recreation hall for us near the University. If the chapel so we wouldn't have to hang around the corners or sit on the wall. The adults from out of town see us sitting on the wall and they think something is going on. They don't approve of it. The only place you can have fun is at Paradise Pool on U.S. 1 and you need a car to belong to that. Half of the guys in town don't have licenses. All we can do is sit around town and talk.

Michael Sweeney, 17, 181 N. Harrison Street, clerk: There isn't really anything available right now. They don't even have dances that are halfway decent. They won't let anyone in who they think will be a problem or stir up trouble, which is wrong, because it is discrimination. They prejudice you and don't even give you a chance.

Russell Denton, 16, Princeton Junction, PHS: The only place you can go is the canteen which could be better. I think they should have some guest stars like they have done in Trenton. In Princeton all they have is a record player. I'd like to see Princeton have a place where you can go and sit—and not get kicked out of all the time. Just sit and listen to a juke box where you can buy a coke and nothing else.

Dorothy Jukes, 15, Skillman, PHS: There aren't many places you can go. About the only place where kids can get together is a place like Renwick's. If kids want to do something after school, there are places for them to go, depending on what they want to do. But if they want a place just to have fun and fool around, I guess there really isn't any place for them to congregate except for a place like Renwick's. But I don't think anybody suffers from it, at least I know I don't.

Erik Bach, 19, 198 Ewing Street, mover: I think Princeton needs a hot rod club and a place where teenagers can gather and talk about cars and racing. A place where they can keep their interest in it. All they can do right now is just hang around gas stations around town. It's no good. They need a definite place. I think Princeton should also try to find an empty field and build a drag strip on it so we can run our cars and not have to use a main street. In other words, if you have a garage, you need a place to try your cars. One no good without the other. If you only have one, it leads to trouble.

Suzanne Shaw, 19, Riverside Drive, Trenton, student, Bourne-Boss School: Really, the only place I know of in Princeton is the Y and I think it's excellent. They have facilities not only for athletic improvement but for social events as well. I know some but I don't think there are enough dances where everyone is free to come. You don't want to play tennis or go to the movies every night. There should be something else for the teenagers to do.

 ing to do and no place to go, therefore I just come up town and walk around and sit on the fence. I think something ought to be organized for the high school kids so there is something to do on Friday and Saturday nights and during the summertime. I don't know what specifically, but something should be done. I don't expect to have something to do on school nights but I can't sit home every weekend.

Carol Crusier, 20, 37 William Street, practical nurse: There isn't anything in my opinion. I think they should have more dances for the kids. They have a lot of stuff for kids at the YM and the YW but there is so much trouble joining the Y. Most of the activities are during the day but teenagers want something to do at night. I'd like to see a lot more dances here in Princeton with good bands like they had out at Princeton Junction last year. The dances at Kingston were always crowded. I don't know why they stopped them. They haven't had any good ones like those for a long time. They ought to have something like a food drive-in for the kids to go to after a dance or a date. Now the only place you can go to is Renwick. Everybody body rolls up their sidewalks at 10 o'clock. Anybody who would open a food drive-in for teenagers in Princeton would make a fortune.

Jack Churchhill, 19, 252 Snowden Lane, student: From the standpoint of a teenager, Princeton is a dead town, a bore. What it needs is a coffee house with things like folk singing, modern jazz and dancing—with the exclusion of the town boozers. That's the trouble—you can ask for these places but the minute you get one they get filled up with rowdy guys who ruin it.

 Filters in dry-cleaning systems use Fuller's earth to catch and retain the dirt dislodged out by the solvents. In old-style filters, this residue builds up, layer by layer, to be laboriously scraped clean at the end of every week.

The new filter has, within its surprisingly small tank, 64 stainless steel tube filters which are joined by compressed air to shake themselves free of residue after every single load.

Attached to a new dry-cleaning machine which can take a tremendous flow solvent, this new filter means, for University, that almost none of the clothes have to go to the spotting board, and for customers, that clothes are cleaner than they have ever been before, even stubborn things like raincoat collars and snow-suits.

If you wonder what happens to all that residue shaken loose during the day (the shaking activated, as you probably guessed, by an electronic brain), we can tell you that it is flushed into a tank where it is boiled into a vapor then chilled, the solvent emerging as white as water itself.

Incidentally, although the filter tank is a shiny black, the dry-cleaning machine is shell pink, and so are all the other pieces of equipment which University had added in the last few months.

THE FATTED SUEDE
 Calif. Too. Surfeited for the moment with the tweedy look you find so abundant every fall, we turned to Nassau Shoe Tree on Palmer Square to see what they're wearing for silky evenings this autumn.

We found black suede everywhere, and peau de soie and faille and some very sleek calf. Our favorite is de Liso Deb's black peau de soie with a heel as high as five martins and tiny black velvet clovers, each with a pin-point of jet in the center, sewn over the silk, $13.95.

In suede, we liked Joyce's scalloped calf at $14.95 and a most unusual sling pump, cut plain, with a square throat, narrow heel sling and a mid-heel that curves delicately inward.

To please everybody, Joyce designs a surprise vamp pump in black calf with a heel "higher than low and lower than high." To be technical, it's a 2-1/2.

On the stacked side, for the morning, Nassau Shoe Tree has a spectator in the antiquated grey-brown they call "otter" this fall, done with a stacked, shaped heel and slightly squared toe. Comes in cherry red, too. A similar heel supports "Contessa," a lizard calf in otter with the simplicity to match any suit.

Flat fans will want one of Shice's skimmers, per haps this one, with curves of grey and tan meeting on each side of a rust gusset, or the finely pointed sole with antiqued brown eyelid top.

Matching or complementing all these shoes, Shoe Tree has handbags in petting, tapestry, cut velvet and calf. Look at the calf bag ($11.95) with brass frame and latch and leather handle, and the alligator calf purse to match the alligator pump.

A black faille evening bag might be square with Florentine fold clasp, or oblong with rhinestone clasp.

Did we say alligator pumps? Of course! Choose them with mid or high heel, classic opera style, for $32.95.

Question Board Policy
 To the Editor of Town Topics: Princeton residents should view with alarm the implications of the recent statement of the Township Board of Education regarding its future plans. The Township Board is to conduct a broad study of the present development and future growth of their school system as a basis for school planning.

The fact that the Township Board must unilaterally make such a study implies a serious breakdown of effective communication between Borough and Township Boards of Education.

Everyone recognizes that the Borough and Township of Princeton comprise a single educational community. Last spring, after it was demonstrated that a merger of the two school systems could be achieved without financial sacrifice to either district, nearly 200 Borough residents petitioned the Borough Board to sponsor an early study of school consolidation. Mr. Graham Rohrer, president of the Borough Board, then stated that "the two school boards could conduct a study with outside professional assistance."

Yet now the Township Board finds that the Borough Board "has not seen its way clear to join in an immediate study of merger possibilities, nor has it been willing to join in planning the present comprehensive study as a community-wide affair."

To be effective, such a study must be made before implementation of current building plans in the two districts. Otherwise undue emphasis might well be given to the needs within each district, at the expense of coordinated long-range planning to strengthen the educational facilities of the entire Princeton community.

To be more specific: How can Princeton Borough residents be asked to vote on the acquisition of new land for school purposes — at a cost of $172,000 — while the most fundamental question affecting the future of the proposed facility is so pointedly avoided?

It is no longer possible for any school system to rest complacently on its past reputation and achievements, if it seeks to maintain a position of excellence.

What is the Borough Board waiting for?

Was Saturday's near-90 heat and humidity the last hot day of summer? Are early-fall flowers really coming into their own? It'll be a while, the Man says, before warm weather departs for good—actually, September temperatures are expected to run somewhat above normal. That's the picture which, at least so far, will be generally fair.

Topics Of The Town

Blazejewski's summons for careless driving. Later, the police reported that the steering mechanism and the brakes of the car were inspected at the Princeton Circle Esso Station both appeared to be in satisfactory working order, they said.

BRAKES AT FAULT
In Route 266 Mishap, Yoshikazu Sakamoto, 27, 93 Graduate College, crashed into the side of another car when his brakes failed Sunday morning as he was coming down Brue's Hill on Lawrenceville Road. It was raining and wet at the time.
Mr. Sakamoto told Township police that another car had swerved toward him as he was driving down the hill at 35 miles-per-hour, and forced him off the shoulder of the road. In trying to bring his car under control, he reported his brakes failed.

According to police, Mr. Sakamoto's car then swerved across the highway, jumped the curb and hit the side of another car waiting to enter the highway from a private driveway. It then proceeded down a small grade before coming to rest against a picket fence.

The second car was operated by Mrs. Caroline L. Dismore, 21, of Lawrenceville Road. The force of the collision shoved her car backward into a Public Service pole. Though she and Mr. Sakamoto were slightly injured, their cars were extensively damaged. Six feet of fence on the Dismore property was ruined.

Mrs. Dismore told police she also saw the other car described by Mr. Sakamoto, saw him swerve and hit the shoulder and then veer toward her. No skid marks were found by the police, who issued no summons.

The police also reported that the brakes on Mr. Sakamoto's car had been repaired at Leggett's Esso Station 11 days prior to the accident. The car had been inspected by the Motor Vehicle Department and passed the latter part of August.

SQUAD NEEDS FIRST AID
In Dollars, Please. A boat rescuer in the Princeton area crashed against a tree, a heart attack victim desperate for aid, all of these emergencies will bring ten ambulances of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad to the rescue with first aid.

Now the squad, supported by voluntary contributions, is asking Princeton residents for $70,000. For the past 23 years, the ambulances of the squad have been based in the Chestnut Street Firehouse, but now the squad is building a home of its own, a one-story brick structure on the corner of Harrison and Clearview, which will cost $70,000.

Once the building is complete, three members of the squad will sleep in the building every night, on a rotation basis, so that the community will be covered at all times. There are 25 volunteers in the First Aid and Rescue Squad, two ambulances and a rescue truck, two boats and a full array of emergency equipment.

According to Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman, the new draft reflects a 3-2 split on Township Committee: John S. Mount and Maurice F. Healey Jr., still favoring total restraint.

Three sisters, Mrs. Benjamin DiCaprio and Mrs. Henry Drake, both of Skillman, and Mrs. J. A. Kelley of Trenton.

THOMPSON ASKS OK
For Windsor Lots, "Windsor Lakes," a 20-acre plot of land presented Wednesday to the West Windsor Township Planning Board by Thompson Realty of Princeton, will need a hasty re-christening as one result of planning board action.

The land lies on Conover Road and includes, behind the lots which Thompson plans to sell, a few small lakes which are actually part of an irrigation system. The planning board has not yet given its final word of approval of the whole, but it did tell Frank Quinby, the Thompson representative, that the lakes would have to be filled in to comply with health requirements.

Thompson Realty plans to sell land from about 13 of the 20 acres and hopes to bisect the long, narrow plot with a road to make its lots a more convenient site for potential builders. West Windsor regulations specify a minimum lot size of 30,000 square feet in this area.

HAGADORN CLEARED
By Judge Fusco. An appeal by James R. Hagadorn, Jr., 19, of Cranbury, of a conviction for throwing ice cream from a moving vehicle has been upheld by Judge Ralph Fusco in Mercer Court. His ruling reverses a $50 fine that had been imposed on Hagadorn by Princeton Township Magistrate James S. Hunt.

The case arose from a complaint by Joseph P. Kokesch, Jr., 33 Mill Lane, Lawrence Township. Mr. Kokesch charged that on June 30 an object which he thought to be ice cream struck the window of his car on Mercer Street as he was passed by another car in which Hagadorn was a passenger.

Mr. Kokesch then testified that he turned around, stopped the suspect car, and asked Hagadorn to get out. He wanted to tell him, he said, if Hagadorn's hand was wet and cold Mr. Kokesch said it was but Hagadorn denied it, saying it was only wet from perspiration.

Mr. Kokesch then asked the driver of the car, Ernest Hunt, 20, 90 Westcott Road, to follow him to Township police station. Hunt refused. The prosecution had maintained that if the boys had not been guilty they would have followed Kokesch to the police station.

In his ruling, Judge Fusco pointed out that Mr. Kokesch had originally charged Hunt, the driver, with throwing the ice cream. He reversed the decision and found Hagadorn not guilty.

"I don't think a citizen of this state," the judge said, "should have to follow every crank to the police station just because the crank tells him to." He added that it was clear that someone was out to "get" one of the two young men.

LICENSES REVOKED

Marciano, 37, of 206 Burr Street, Pennington, for one month; Johnnie E. Rorie, 22, of 33 Leigh Avenue, for two months; and Joseph L. Sullivan, 20, of Linden Lane, for two months.

For Ballot Position. The drawing for party column position in preparation of the ballot for the general election which will be held Tuesday, November 6, will take place Monday, September 17, in the office of the Mercer County clerk in the County Court House.

The public is invited to witness the drawing. Frank Thompson Jr., Democrat, will oppose Ephraim Tomlinson II, Republican, for election to the House of Representatives from the state's Fourth Congressional District. ## Tops Of The Town

CALNEST SPOT IN TOWN:
Civil Defense Office. The room at the foot of the stairs at 104 Witherspoon Street is dark and empty.
A neat pile of pamphlets partially covers unused wall maps of the Princeton area. There are locks on the telephones and all of the desks but one are bare.
This is the Civil Defense office.

A man with a broom comes through. "You may have a wait," he says. "Never know when the captain'll be here. He stops by for orders early, maybe around 10 or 11, and in and out fast." And he pokes the broom past a chairless desk.

Upstairs, in the Engineer's office, someone says, "Funny you should ask about Civil Defense. We were just talking about it yesterday. Captain Sage got the first application in, I guess, eight months. Well, it was really just a request for information."

Later on, Captain Geoffrey Sage, Civil Defense director for the past four years, came in and settled at his desk. "Nothing happened in Berlin a year ago," he said. "That's one of the reasons why it's quiet. We had a lot of calls up here late October or November, then it fell off."

"Lots of people don't believe in the shelter program. They believe in peace . . . and they put their time and money into it. But they believe in fire insurance, too. And I can't see the difference.
"He opened some folders and reports on his desk.

"When Civil Defense was turned over to the Department of Defense last year, a lot of people wanted to see what the government was going to do with the idea of the use of public shelters."

"Politics enters into it, too. The government planned to share the cost of public shelters in schools, hospitals, in institutions and so on . . . on a 60-40 basis. But it looks as though Congress is only going to pass enough money to handle the administrative end of Civil Defense.
"You're fighting an uphill battle, no question about it. If Congress isn't going to do anything, how can you expect the people to do anything?"

The government's nationwide survey of buildings suitable for atomic shelters was completed late this spring. The figure for Princeton shows that there is shelter space for about 25,000 people.
"I think this is pretty high," Capt. Sage commented. "There's one building in town that is considered able to care for over 4,000 people. I don't believe it."

The government is starting now the second phase of its program, which is to take a second look at these areas and solicit the owners for permission to use them as public shelters. The government would stock the shelters with supplies.

Who would pay for the government's proposed changes, which would make a shelter area safe? "Well, there you have a problem, too, the whole thing would be voluntary. Another thing, you can drop a bomb, I hope I'm out in the Rockies if it ever happens.

"But you can't sit by and think it can't happen. It is possible. Trenton is listed as a target area, but personally, I don't think so. Philadelphia is more likely. Block out Philadelphia and the bridge over the river, and you've knocked out Trenton, too.
"Princeton, some claim is a target area because we have so many brains here. But we have areas like Princeton all over the country. If one were knocked out, the others would function."
Captain Sage argues that residents should think in terms of disaster techniques. "Civil Defense is one more step," he says.

PROGRESS IS SLOW: Capt. Geoffrey Sage reports on the shelter program undertaken by the Civil Defense Office in Princeton.

"We haven't fought on these shores in a long time, but with these intercontinental missiles, we have to change our thinking. The time is short. People have to be trained to take care of themselves and then of the community."

During the past winter Civil Defense worked out programs with the schools. One of the knotty problems was the care of the child of working parents.
"With an hour's warning after a hit in New York and a 20 m.p.h. wind, we have time to send the child home. But who'd be there?"

Capt. Sage feels that progress is being made. "But it is slow, costly, and politics enter into it."

PLANNING IS TOPIC
Of Adult School Series. The Princeton Adult School will conduct a series of lectures on "Community and Regional Planning" from 8 to 9 p.m. on successive Thursdays at Princeton High School. The first lecture will be September 27 and the complete curriculum for the fall term will be published next week in TOWN TOPICS.

C. McKim Norton, a former chairman of the Borough Planning Board, will give the first lecture. His topic will be "Introduction to Planning in the Princeton Area." The series is being planned with the help of the League of Women Voters, who have been studying the problem for several years.

Other lecturers will be Herbert H. Smith, Charles K. Agle, B. Budd Chavoshian, Dr. David Pope, Malcolm P. Crooks, Lyle C. Fitch and Dr. David B. Wilkens. Tickets for single programs as well as the entire series will be available.

TOP SECRET
Label on Princeton Firm
"Top Secret" is the label on the work of a Princeton firm that has received a $47,000 government contract to try to develop statistical detection of cheating in disarmament agreements.

The firm, Mathematica, Inc., operates out of a sparsely furnished office suite on the third floor of a former Princeton dormitory at 76½ Nassau Street. Its staff of 15 mathematicians and economists, including Princeton professor Dr. Oskar Morgenstern, who is chairman of the board, is headed by Russell S. Tate Jr.

The firm is tackling problems of disarmament cheating for the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

"Our work could involve a question of national survival," said Mr. Tate. "That's the way the disarmament agency regards it."

The problem of verifying disarmament agreements involves sampling, just as quality-control and public opinion polling have required for years, Mr. Tate explained. It would simply be impossible to investigate every possible arms site in a country the size of the Soviet Union.

"But there's a new set of problems here, never before faced by probability mathematicians," Mr. Tate said. "You'll be dealing with a population that you can assume is hostile and will be doing things to make the sampling inefficient."

Mr. Tate said, however, that his group has "great confidence" that the problem can be solved. The answer, he said, will involve integrating sampling theory with "game theory" developed in the Princeton Forties by Dr. Morgenstern and Dr. John von Neumann.

Example Cited. An often cited example of game theory at work, Mr. Tate said, is one involving two men in a duel with pistols, each of which is loaded with two bullets. The participants are instructed to walk so many paces apart.

The dueler who knows his game theory will be calculating what steps he can take to maneuver his opponent in to firing both his bullets while he fires only one. Once this has safely been done, Mr. Tate observed, "You're sure to win."

Dr. Morgenstern, professor of political economy, is director of Princeton's Econometric Research Program. In this project he directs a team of economists and mathematicians engaged in a new approach to a solution of some of the basic problems of the American economy.

Of this study, Dr. Morgenstern has said, "Some of the basic economic and business problems can be set up as game problems and thereupon become subject to the techniques developed in 'The Theory of Games' and later studies. It is possible to conceive of the happenings in a market as strictly equivalent to the events and procedures to a game of strategy such as poker."

One presumes that a somewhat similar hypothesis is being applied to problems of disarmament control, but the firm isn't saying. Beyond generalizations about mathematics and strategy Mr. Tate approaches a discussion of the project like a man defusing a bomb.

Among the things Mr. Tate can't discuss are the rate of progress on the subject (it is to be completed by January), the approaches being used, specific methods under study as ones a nation might take to fool the arms inspectors, how many Mathematica staff members are working on the job, or which ones they are.

Has Many Clients. Classified government work is only part of the firm's role. It was organized three years ago as a subsidiary of Market Research Corporation of America, New York, to help organizations solve managerial and operational problems based on mathematics and modern economics.

Among its clients have been the U.S. Navy, which has massive problems of getting supplies to its far-flung units in the right quantities and at the right times; Volkswagen, which had a similar problem, on a miniature scale, in getting parts from Germany to its American outlets; Radio Corporation of America; Lockheed Aircraft; General Foods; and the U.S. Veterans Administration, which had a broad range of

The visitor to the firm's offices, soon to be moved to 23 Nassau Street, hears from side rooms intense talk among staff members discussing new theories in the jargon of mathematics and statistics and punctuating their discourses by jabbing with chalk at blackboards filled with howling equations.
"Our people get ideas and try them out on each other to see if they're on the right track," Mr. Tate said.

Satisfying Work. "One of the advantages of an operation like ours, where we get a group of very well-trained people together, is that we get leverage out of the interaction of one on the other. They stimulate each other. It's really transforming, though I don't like the term."
"A great deal of the work we do has never been done before. There's a tremendous element of creativity here. We do not do much work in areas where solutions already exist—we don't take packaged mathematical solutions and re-label them. This may sound precarious, but it's the way we work."

The disarmament project is so hush-hush that Mr. Tate requested it be made clear that information disclosing that the firm was working on the project, the amount of the grant or the amount of the fee did not come directly from him. "I'm not authorized to release that information," he said.
The announcement of these facts was made in June by Congressman Frank Thompson Jr. of the Mercer-Burlington district.

Other new members of the Chapin staff are Mrs. William Dix, McCosh Circle, third grade; Mrs. Elmer Chase, Rosedale Road, kindergarten; and Sherwood Smith, Westcott Road, senior school English. The school's Michael Peters Memorial Athletic Field will be ready for use this fall.

PARTY SCHEDULED
By Conservatives. Some 50 officers of conservative clubs from eight New Jersey counties are expected to attend a conference on Saturday, September 15, in the Nassau Inn. The conference is being planned and organized by Howard Frank of Trenton, a member of the board of directors of the New Jersey Conservative Club. He said the purpose of the conference is to draw together representatives of independent and affiliated conservative clubs and to break down individual club lines in favor of a more unified effort.

The conference is scheduled to run from 10:30 a.m. until 6 p.m. Mr. Frank said he hoped it would be the first in a series of planned meetings.

It will be open to the public with a $1 registration fee. Mr. Frank said some 500 invitations have been mailed.

BOX SUPPER SET
By Newcomers' Club. The Newcomers' Club will hold a box supper and mixer on Sunday, September 16, at 4 p.m. in Marquand Park. In case of rain, the event will be held a week later, on September 23.
Wives have been asked to prepare box suppers for two, which will be auctioned at a maximum price of $1. The wives will play the husbands in baseball. Husbands will pitch and catch left-handed and run backwards. A nursery will be provided at the park.

PLANNER TO SPEAK
At Democrats' Meeting. Louis Calvanelli, Mercer County planning engineer, will speak Tuesday at 8 at a meeting of the West Windsor Democratic Club in the Princeton Junction Firehouse, Alexander Road.
Mr. Calvanelli's topic will be planning and he will discuss the assistance given to municipalities by the County. His talk is part of a series designed to inform members of the county of developments and procedures in county and municipal government.

STATE FAIR TO OPEN
For 9-day Run. The New Jersey State Fair will open Saturday, September 15, in Trenton for a 9-day run that will include automobile stunt driving, rock 'n' roll idols, a water show and cattle judging.
The stunt drivers, Joe Chitwood and his Thrill Stunters, will appear on Friday and Saturday afternoons, September 21 and 22. Ricky Nelson will sing on opening night, and Dick Clark and the American Bandstand dancers will entertain the following Wednesday, September 19.

The water show, called Aqua Spectacular, will be repeated each afternoon and evening Monday through Thursday. Tuesday will be Future Farmers' Day, and cattle will be judged in the Coliseum.

On Sunday, September 16, a 100-mile midget auto race will be featured in the evening. A Queen of the Fair will be chosen, and Rudy Vallee will entertain. On Wednesday afternoon and evening Tex Ritter will perform.

On Saturday afternoon, in addition to stunt driving, there will be time trials for the 200-mile race for Indianapolis cars and drivers which will be held on closing day, Sunday, September 23. Thursday will be Governor's Day and Gov. Hughes will be at the fair from 5 to 6.

FLOOR IS "FIRST"

At New Studio, A "floating floor" specially designed for the Aparri School of Dance by the Buchanan Construction Corporation, Lawrenceville, will respond to the dancing feet of students when the studio opens for the fall term at 217 Nassau.

It is the first custom-made floor of its kind in Princeton. Mida Gibbons, teacher and director of the school, wanted a floor which would have the same degrees of firmness and resiliency as a stage floor, and fill her requirements, Buchanan made an oak floor laid on sleepers and set on specially-ordered composition shims.

The farther apart the sleepers, the more resiliency the floor; the closer together, the firmer. Joseph Ialacci, carpenter, made several test floors which Aparri dancers tried out with jumps and slides, testing until the right distances were found.

An air space between the base concrete and the floor also contributes to the comfortable "feel" of the floor, and the dancers can land on the oak surface from leaps or turns without jarring their ankles and backs.

Set solid within the four walls of the building, the floor is not anchored to the concrete, which gives it the "float" or stage quality sought by Miss Gibbons.

The new studio is located in the building behind the Hay and Clover dress shop.

BUSINESS SPIRIT SAME
German Trainee Finds, A 22-year-old German trainee who has spent the summer working at D. Van Nostrand Company, Inc., 120 Alexander Street, says the famed "hard-driving American business spirit" is "so different from what is now going on in Germany."

Just Simoa, a fourth-year university student in Nuremberg, added that in some German enterprises there is more "go, go, go spirit and pressure" than in the U. S. The most starting difference between the two countries, he said, is that in America, "people think big."

"In a larger country," he continues, "the dimensions of traveling a hundred miles here, but in Germany that's a long trip. There is a difference in mentality, although there is in Germany now, too."

Mr. Simon is working at Van Nostrand under an international exchange program sponsored by the Association Inter-nationale des Etudiants en Sciences Economiques et Commerciales (AIESEC). The program, which this year found jobs for 3,900 students, is run by college students.

Annual Conventions. Once a year, AIESEC leaders from participating countries meet to exchange job offers. Each national group fills the openings for foreign countries with qualified candidates nominated by its local chapters.

AIESEC has world headquarters in Geneva and national headquarters in each participating country, staffed by students, most of whom work for nothing. To support itself, the organization charges companies that hire trainees $50 and up and collects a $25 fee from each student job hunter. The students pay their own transportation to and from jobs.

In 1963, the 11-day international congress will be held at Princeton University beginning Saturday, March 30. At this time trainee positions will be exchanged by students from 38 countries. William Helm, a Princeton senior, will be the congress chairman.

Edward B. Crane, president of Van Nostrand, is a member of the congress's New Jersey sponsoring committee. Other members include William D'Ottaviano, dean of students at Princeton, and Sen. Harrison Williams.

Hospitality Here "Great."
Mr. Simon, who says he has been much impressed by American hospitality ("It's great"), finds the atmosphere at Van Nostrand "very relaxed." He adds, "But we accomplish the work."

Since coming to Van Nostrand at the first of July, Mr. Simon has worked for various periods in each of six departments. His immediate supervisor, Orlando Petrocelli, office manager, said his performance has been "excellent."

Mr. Crane reports that the firm has been pleased with Mr. Simon's work as well as with the work of a French trainee employed at the firm last summer. "We're very enthusiastic about the AIESEC program," he added.

Mr. Simon said some AIESEC trainees have complained of being used as "cheap labor." He said he felt "rather lucky" being with Van Nostrand where he has had a chance to attend briefings "talk to people, ask a lot of questions, and do things."

Enjoyed His Work. Other students have described their jobs as "perfect traineeships." Mr. Simon said, "meaning that they had no work." He added that he enjoyed his work and had not gotten the feeling of "loafing for my money."

Mr. Petrocelli said he felt the fact that Mr. Simon was working at an American job gave him a truer picture of the country and its people.

Mr. Simon, who lives in Stuttgart, said he plans to go into advertising. His field is micro-economics, and he is specializing in sales and advertising. He hopes to return to the U. S. for a year of graduate study after completing his schooling in Germany.

Mr. Simon's spare time activity has been burrowing among the volumes of Princeton Library in search of books that might help him in a thesis on micro-economics. He spent four days in Washington, D. C., as one of 95 AIESEC trainees who attended capital seminars and were briefed at government departments. He has been to New York on business and plans to go to Philadelphia. Mr. Simon has also become familiar with two other hills of Americans—the New Jersey shore and Niagara Falls.

To AeroChem Pest. Richard D. Hargrave has been appointed business manager of AeroChem Research Laboratories, Inc., a subsidiary of Frauland Permutit, Inc. Mr. Hargrave is a former member of the parent company's engineering staff, and has extensive sales and development experience.

He succeeds George Bent, who will join the parent company's international division following a two-month tour of the Far East. A 1952 graduate of Princeton University, Mr. Hargrave will be responsible for all AeroChem business activities. He and his wife and two children will make their home at 99 Red Hill Road in October.

AeroChem is a basic research organization engaged in industrial and government contract work on solid propellants, aerothermochemistry, physical chemistry of combustion and gaseous electrolytes.

FILM SCHEDULED
By Princeton Report. The Princeton Report, Inc., is producing a film on the activities of the Area Redevelopment Administration of the Department of Commerce. It will be used on television in mid-October.

Gordon Knox, vice-president of Princeton Report, Inc., is producer and director of the film. It will be narrated by Cliff Huntley, the television news commentator. Maxwell Ewing, who has charge of Princeton Report's western division, is co-producer.

The color film will include material filmed on location in Princeton, New Jersey; Mt. Charleston, W. Va.; and Toms River. It will be distributed by information office of the Area Redevelopment Administration. The tentative title is "The A. R. Story."

HEADING FOR PALMER STADIUM: Among the top players who will appear in Saturday's Giants-Eagles football game are Chuck Bednarik, veteran linebacker for the Philadelphia Eagles, and Y. A. Little (right), racking quarterback for the New Yorkers.

SPORTS In Princeton

"PLAY FOR PAY" DUE HERE
Pro Football in Debut, The New York Giants, defending champions in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League, and the Philadelphia Eagles, who held the same title 12 months earlier, will play an exhibition game in Palmer Stadium Saturday at 2. A 46,000-seat sellout by the sponsors, the New Jersey Chamber of Commerce.

Off their better record in four exhibition games to date, the Eagles are slight favorites to top their long-time rivals, who barely edged them in the 1961 standings — largely on their ability to trim the Philadelphia in a pair of regular-season contests, 28-24 and 38-21. So far this summer, the Eagles have been the more impressive, following an opening loss to the Baltimore Colts with triumph over the Cincinnati go Bears, the Washington Redskins and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Hard hit by injuries — to a degree virtually unprecedented in pre-season action — the Giants have not fared as well. Although they led the St. Louis Cardinals by three touchdowns in their opener, they fell back to a tie at 21-all. In succeeding games, they lost to the San Francisco Forty-Niners, defeated the Los Angeles Rams and then were beaten 20 to 17, by the Green Bay Packers, in a sequel to the contest that gave Vince Lombardi's team the NFL championship last December. The exhibition game this week was played on Labor Day, giving the Giants only five days between their meeting with the rugged Packers and the encounter with the Eagles here Saturday.

Jurgenson Fine Quarterback. One of the many fine players in action Saturday will be the Philadelphia quarterback, Sonny Jurgenson, fully recovered from the severe shoulder separation he incurred last January in a post-season exhibition contest. He had a tremendous year last fall, setting NFL records for completions (235), total yardage (3723) and evaluating Johnny Unitas' mark (32) for touchdowns passed. Behind Jurgenson is King Hill, who came off the bench last week against the Steelers at Hershey, Pa., to throw a pair of scoring passes to Tommy McDonald.

Bobby Walston (who also handles the place-kicking chores for the Eagles) and Pete Retafel are the favorite targets for the Jurgenson and Hill. The Philadelphia's running game is spearheaded by the veteran Clarence Peaks at fullback and Tim Brown, a fast halfback.

Rules Variations Between Colleges and Pros

Spectators in Palmer Stadium Saturday will find major differences between rules governing intercollegiate football and the game as played by the National Football League.

The principal variation, of course, is the professionals' use of unlimited substitution, the rule which the colleges abrogated in 1953 after several years of two platoon football. All pro eleven use a separate offense and defensive unit, supplementing them with kickoff teams, field goal teams and, often, goal-line defensive units.

With certain minor exceptions (such as a forward fumble or fourth down), any player may run with a recovered fumble. In college football, fumbles have been dead at point of recovery for more than 30 years.

They've Been Here Before

Two players who will see action in Saturday's professional football game here have played previously in Palmer Stadium.

Chuck Bednarik, still line-backing for the Eagles at the somewhat advanced age of 37, was a fine center for the University of Pennsylvania. While he would probably rather recall his last appearance against the Tigers, when Penn won, 26-7, in Palmer Stadium in 1947, he also played in Princeton's 17-14 upset of the mighty Quaker team the previous fall.

Bob Simms, a fine end for Rutgers and its captain in 1953, has been with the Giants for three seasons. He is a 6-3, 230-lb. linebacker for the New Yorkers.

With Coach Nick Skorich hopeful that Ted Dean, sidelined for much of the exhibition season, will be ready for duty again.

Defensively, the Eagles had considerably more trouble last season than the Giants, particularly when their top back, Tom Brookshier, broke a leg. It was no coincidence that he missed the last four games of the year and the Philadelphia effort lost them all. He is not playing this season, the severe fracture having ended his career.

John Baker, a lineman obtained from the Los Angeles Rams, is the big man on the Eagles squad, displacing 290 pounds on the scales. In the second, Jimmy Carr is a stand-out, as is Eric Cross, who leads down the safety spot.

In their four losses last year, the Eagles yielded 30 points to the Cardinals, 28 and 38 to the Giants and 45 to the Browns. The Giants were conside-ably more adept at defending their goal line in beating them, the Cards scored 21 points. Packers 20, and Dallas in a major upset — 17, in 14 games during the regular season, the Giants gave up 15 points on the average to 21 for the Eagles.

Giants Miss Barnes. Among the numerous pre-season casualties suffered by the Giants was Erich Barnes, all-League defensive halfback who counted among his accomplishments a 101-yard pass interception against the Dallas Cowboys. Out with a dislocated elbow incurred at the Giants' Fairfield, Conn., training camp, he is sorely missed in the secondary.

Half a dozen other players, including three promising rookies, have missed virtually all the exhibition season, but — Continued on Page 21

the veteran Dick Lynch, a fine corner man, is expected back for Saturday's game, and in Jim Patton the New Yorkers have probably the league's top safety.

Through the years the Giants' defense has made as much of a name for the team as its ball carriers. The reasons are numerous: Ronny Greer and Dick Modzelewski, tackles; ends Jim Kautage and Andy Rohnstelt; and linebacker Sam Huff, to list those best known.

On the offensive line, the Giants will field other well-known names, headed by Ross Brown, an all-league tackle who frequently goes both ways when the New Yorkers' defense digs in for one of its famed goal-line stands. Ray Wietecha is the veteran center, with Jack Shroud and Darrel Dess still a pair of top-flight guards despite years of service.

Title to Shofner. A pair of transplanted West Coast players, Y. A. Tittle from the Los Angeles Rams and Del Shofner from the Rams, form the Giants' most dangerous pass combination. Tittle, a 35-year-old balding quarterback (who occasionally plays a weekend round of golf at Sprinfield), frequently managed to move the Giants' best fall when "old man" Connelly found his final year slow going. Shofner, better than many a college end, is a frequent target on his passes.

Another trade acquisition—Ralph Guglielmi, one-time Notre Dame star—was bought from the St. Louis Cardinals and has already proved he will give the Giants a better one-two punch at quarterback than

TO THE VICTORS belong the trophy—in this case, a sterling silver bowl donated by TOWN TOPICS to the champions of the Princeton Business Softball League. Accepting the trophy for the first winner, RCA Laboratories, is Arthur N. Curtis (center) manager, administration, at RCA. Robert H. Arlett, team manager, is at the right. Looking on are Frank A. they have had in several seasons. Against the Rams, he completed 14 of 28, two for touchdowns, and sneaked over for a third.

Two long-time mainstays for the New Yorkers will be missing—end Kyle Rote and place-kicker Pat Summerall, who retired at the end of the 1961 season. Replacing them will be Frank Gifford, whose "retirement" after the 1960 campaign lasted only a year, and Don Chandler, who now handles all the kicking for the Giants after having been a punting specialist.

Other New York names to watch for: Bob Gaiters, who can with ability and power in his rookie year; Johnny Coats, a University of Illinois alumnus whose speed has caught the eye in his first season with the Giants; and Alex Webster, a veteran ball carrier who contributed much to last fall's success with a major comeback effort.

RCA WINS TROPHY

Gulton Is 10-5 Victim. RCA Labs came from behind to defeat Gulton, 10 to 5, Thursday in the RCA diamond to win the championship of the Princeton Business Softball League and its first leg on the TOWN TOPICS trophy. The victory was RCA's second in the best-of-three series, after Gulton had won the first game, 12-7.

Paced by Don Kraus' two-run double, Gulton jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first. This margin dissolved in the next inning when RCA combined rapped out doubles with men on base and Jim Clark homered. Art Hahn got credit for the win.

RCA was managed this season by Bob Arlett. Other entries and their managers in the eight-team circuit, which was organized in 1960, were Educational Testing Service, Bill DeBoskey; Engineering Research Center, Carl Valentin; Opinion Research, Joe Cassara; Columbia Carbon, Elliott Denniston; Electro-Mechanical Research Center, Gene Worek; Industrial Reactor Labs, Weldon Reed; and Gulton, Bob Quinn. Educational Testing, the 1961 champion, was the winner in the regular.

BRIGHT PROSPECT: Sophomore Cosmo Iacavazzi (5-11, 185) is expected to develop into a standout two-way fullback for Princeton.

match their performances unless unlimited substitutions are reinstated.
Nonetheless, Princeton has the basic ingredients at Blairtown this fall: a strong, mobile line, several topflight fullbacks in Greg Riley, Hugh MacMillan, Pete Porietis, Dan Terpaak, Jim Ruckelshach, a hard-blocking back in Heinrich and a greater threat through the middle.
Despite the tremendous outside strength the Tigers packed last year, the fullback slot was virtually non-existent for ball-carrying purposes. Homer Smith, captain and fullback a decade ago, gained more yards (273) in a single game than all the Princeton fullbacks earned together in all nine games last year.
Things should be different this year. It could be that the rarity holder, senior Bill Merzini, will keep his job on a basis of his blocking and overall experience—but his performance on the wedge play will need to improve.

It could also be that sophomore Cosmo Iacavazzi will simply have too much all-around ability to keep him from earning the starting assignment. Despite his rank as a variety newcomer, he is an extremely impressive two-way prospect.
The thought of the speed which Princeton's fullbacks and wingbacks generate to the outside, and the threat which a hard-running fullback can pose to an over-shifted defense has coaches at the other fives viewing the Princeton game with unforgotten contention.
Despite the steady stream of injuries to key backs last year, Princeton paced the fly offensive statistics with 386.1 yards per game—far ahead of every opponent save Columbia, which has been decimated by graduation. Pete Porietis, who started the season as third string tailback behind Riley and MacMillan, had a greater total offense (620 yards) to his credit than any player save King of Dartmouth and Wood of Cornell, and his average yardage gained each time he put the ball in motion was better than theirs.
Give the Tigers a dry field this fall and odds are they'll run like crazy.

SWIM MEET SET
For Boys and Girls. The Y.M.C.A.'s Flying Fish Club will hold its second annual Schoolboy-Schoolgirl Swim Meet on Saturday, September 15, at the Y.M.C.A. It is open to boys and girls from 8 to 17.
Entries must be submitted to Walter W. Sorg at the Y.M.C.A. by noon Friday, September 14. Check-in time for swimmers is 1:15 p.m. and the meet will begin at 2. Events will include freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke and butterfly. Ribbons will be awarded to the first four finishers in each event.
Students from schools in Princeton, Borough and Township, Pennington, West Windsor, Plainsboro, Hopewell, Montgomery Township, Lawrence Township and Franklin Park have been invited to compete. George W. Good, chairman of the Flying Fish Club, said the meet was intended to encourage youth in competitive swimming and to provide competition at the novice level.

BANK TEAM OPENS
Against Trenton Bowlers. The men's bowling team of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company was scheduled to play its first game Wednesday against a team from the Trenton Trust Company. The Princeton team will compete with other banks in the Trenton area.
Members of the newly-organized team are Cornelius Arnett, Brian D. Bernard, Stanley E. Harding, Thomas W. Harvath, Malcolm G. Magner, Bruce Mapes, John W. Sother, Wesley Tighe and John E. Young. The bank's women's team will begin its fourth year of competition later this fall.
Members are Lois Vendetti, Jean Jacobi, Ruth Jones, Alice Merzoni, Phyllis Bowen.

Mike Basile, assistant manager of the Princeton Recreation Bowling Center, 138 Nassau Street, and Joe Baldino, 311 Ewing Street, have won the Mercer County BPA Doubles Tournament. The victory brought an all-expense trip to Buffalo to compete in the National Men's Doubles Match Game Championship from September 8-11.
To reach the top, Basile and Baldino defeated 14 teams, overcoming Joe Celine and Lou Simon of Trenton in the finals by three Petersen points. They were sponsored by Hinkson's stationery store.
To reach the top, Basile and Mildred Pheland, Mrs. Vendetti is the captain. The team has won several prizes.
